

Early Journal Content on JSTOR, Free to Anyone in the World

This article is one of nearly 500,000 scholarly works digitized and made freely available to everyone in the world by JSTOR.

Known as the Early Journal Content, this set of works include research articles, news, letters, and other writings published in more than 200 of the oldest leading academic journals. The works date from the mid-seventeenth to the early twentieth centuries.

We encourage people to read and share the Early Journal Content openly and to tell others that this resource exists. People may post this content online or redistribute in any way for non-commercial purposes.

Read more about Early Journal Content at <http://about.jstor.org/participate-jstor/individuals/early-journal-content>.

JSTOR is a digital library of academic journals, books, and primary source objects. JSTOR helps people discover, use, and build upon a wide range of content through a powerful research and teaching platform, and preserves this content for future generations. JSTOR is part of ITHAKA, a not-for-profit organization that also includes Ithaka S+R and Portico. For more information about JSTOR, please contact support@jstor.org.

assisting the student in his study of the substantive law of crimes. The book has at least the merit of a wide selection of cases: of the eighty-eight cases reported, only eight are Michigan cases. The student is thus guarded against reading a number of needless cases outside of his own jurisdiction. But the few cases cited make it impossible to obtain a working knowledge of the principles of the subject, and for that reason the book will prove of little value to the student. J. A. R.

MANUAL OF FRENCH LAW AND COMMERCIAL INFORMATION.

By H. CLEVELAND COXE, B. A. Pp. 292. Paris, London, New York: Brentano's. 1902.

This little book should receive a most cordial reception. It is full of valuable information. The eminent specialists who have written various parts, the reliable sources from which it has been compiled, make it authoritative.

To one traveling in France it should prove invaluable, especial attention having been given to those subjects of the law which the American Consul-General has found to be "points which interest Americans." The full treatment of such subjects as Bills of Exchange, Promissory Notes, Foreign Companies, Creditors, Patents, Passports, Shipments Destined to Points in France, etc., makes the book a valuable one for nearly every practitioner. The book is alphabetically arranged.

J. G. K.

CRIMINAL AND PENAL PROCEDURE IN PENNSYLVANIA. By SYLVESTER B. SADLER, A. M., LL. B. Pp. 796. Rochester, N. Y.: The Lawyers' Co-operative Publishing Co. 1903.

Professor Sadler in the above work has presented a treatise filling a long-felt need in Pennsylvania legal literature.

Every step in criminal prosecution is exhaustively treated, as well as those subjects germane, such as Offers of Reward for Arrest and Conviction of Criminals, Habeas Corpus Proceedings, Costs, Summary Convictions, Actions for Penalties, etc. The several chapter headings will give a more definite idea of the comprehensiveness of the work. They are: Redress for Criminal Acts, Jurisdiction, Jurisdiction as Determined by Locality of Crime, Arrest, Fugitive from Justice, Hearings Before Justices, Bail, Habeas Corpus, Mode of Accusation, Grand Jury, The Indictment, Indictments for Particular Offences, Objections to Indictments, Arraignment and Issue, Limitation and Settlement of Prosecutions, Trial, Juries, Conduct of Trial, Charge of Court, Verdict, Arrest of Judgment and New Trial, Sentence, Appeals, Costs, Pardon, Desertion and Surety of the Peace, Penal Actions, Offences Under Statutes and Forms.